A HOT TIME!

Lewisport Gives An Up-to-date Street Fair and Industrial Parade.

A DAY OF UNMIXED PLEASURE.

Three Thousand Happy People Participate in Her Hospitality.

EVERYTHING WAS LOVELY!

The Band Played and the Populace and Visitors Give Themselves to a Day of Merriment.

SOME SWIFT BICYCLE RACES.

Town Crowded by People From Indiana and Towns in Breckinridge, Hancock and Daviess Counties.

Town Covers Itself with All Kinds of Glory—No Accidents or Unpleasant Features.

Lewisport, Hancock county, takes the cake. In fact she is entitled to the whole bakery.

On Thursday, August, 25, she demonstrated to the world that she is the most up-to-date and wide-awake community for her size in the universe.

On that day she held her great street fair and industrial parade. Her merchants showed that they appreciated the trade of their country customers and so they just threw the gates open and gave 3,000 visitors the freedom of the city and entertained them in royal style. No expense was spared and no means neglected that would promote the happiness and enjoyment of the city guests.

It seemed as though every resident of Lewisport had resolved himself into a committee of one whose duty it was to give every stranger a cordial greeting and see to it that he or she drank copiously of the fountain of pleasure.

The whole affair was a glorious success. It would have reflected credit upon Louisville or Evansville. It was a splendid exemplification of public spirit and local pride and it just covered that beautiful little town with a halo of glory.

From dewy morn till late at night the city awoke itself in providing fun and amusement for its guests and there was not a dull hour during the lively day.

The event just took people's breath away for its magnificence and joyousness and when a sober moment came those who witnessed and participated in the carnival of happiness, wondered how it all could be and pondered themselves how so small a town (numerically) could give birth to so gigantic an affair. It did seem as though the mouse had labored and brought forth a mountain. The only explanation to the mystery is that Lewisport is the biggest little city on earth.

Every mother's son, or daughter, who partook of the community's hospitality during the day went away in love with the place and all will sing its praises with the eloquence born of grateful enthusiasm for years to come.

THE CROWD.

It Was Remarkably Well Behaved.

Not an Incident Occurred That Distracted from the Pleasure of Visitors

The number of people entertained by the city was conservatively estimated at 3,000.

They came from nearly towns and from the country. Some came alone, some horseback, others in every manner of vehicle and large parties were brought in by the train.

The people began to come in early in the morning and by eleven o'clock the streets and sidewalks were jammed by the happiest, most good humored and jovial masses of humanity that had ever been attracted by a similar event.

It was a well-dressed, intelligent and prosperous looking crowd and it behaved itself splendidly. It was bubbling over with mirth, glee and enthusiasm. It was not a dissipated crowd. There did not seem to be a blue person in it. All had their appetites keenly whetted for enjoyment and they got it to the hilt.

It was an orderly crowd and the temple and druggist was conspicuous by its absence. All the city militia had to do was to look his sweetest. The visitors just seemed to imbibe the high toned spirit of the town and were on their best behavior.

THE PARADE.

Was a Thing of Beauty and a Joy Forever.

A Mile of Gorgeous, Glittering, Brilliant Color.

The parade was simply grand beyond description. The whole town was represented in it. It is in place to remark right here if there are any "croakers" in Lewisport they were killed by the parade.

The wealthiest merchant in Lewisport was represented in the procession by a float, and so was the colored barber. It seemed to be the desire of everybody to be in the swim and all were there if the parade is any criterion.

The floats were original in design beautiful in decoration and perfect in every way. Some of them would have been worthy of the great Mardi Gras procession that takes place at New Orleans every spring.

It was wonderful how popular this feature was. Some of the merchants were not content with one float alone, but had three or four. The mounted equestrians, the band, the industrial and allegorical floats, the harness horses and the children's brigade that formed the different divisions made at the starting point and surrounded the course.

The first two races were speedy and created great excitement. The last one was a slow race and the crowd had great fun over it.

The winners of the bicycle races were as follows:
Open Race—Irving, of Cannelton.
Hancock County Race—Charles Hawley, of Hawesville.
Lewisport Race—Ted Dano.
Slow Race—James Carlton, Hawesville.

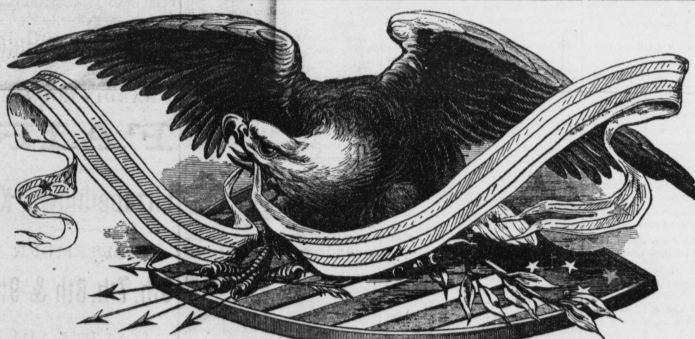

FORMATION.

The Line of March and Divisions.

Many Handsome and Unique Features in Line.

The parade was formed on Market street and marched in the following order.

FIRST DIVISION.
Horace Smith, Marshal.
Staff.
Squadron of Rough Riders and Shot Gun Brigade.

THIS IS THE BIRD THAT SCREAMED AT LEWISPORT.

IN GALA ATTIRE.

Lewisport Had on Her Best Bib and Tuckers.

Flags and Bunting Gave the Town a Festive Appearance.

Lewisport had on her Sunday clothes. From flagstaffs and standards glared "old glory" fluttered in the breeze.

The national colors were in evidence everywhere and thousands of yards of bunting were used by the patriotic people for decorative purposes. The beautiful appearance presented helped to heighten the enjoyment of the visitors and served to make enthusiasm contagious.

Everyone was charmed by the scene of festive gaiety and all were loud in their praise of the efforts of the originators.

A striking feature of the whole affair was the remarkable good taste that was evidenced in all the decorative work. There were no gaudy eye sores. Every opportunity for artistic display had been seized and the effects produced were in all cases beautiful and harmonious.

This display proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that Lewisport people possess more than the ordinary share of culture and refinement.

THE BICYCLE RACES.

After the parade by the children's preparations were made to pull off the bicycle races. The course was roped off and a street grader, in charge of an expert, was put to work. In a short time a fast track was made and all was ready. An immense crowd of people gathered

THE BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION, as well as the manager of the affair, E. S. Watts, merit the approbation of all the people of Hancock county.

They have, by their unselfish methods, done more to draw the people of the town and country together than could all the speech-making of a thousand years.

They have demonstrated themselves to be broad-gauged unselfish business men and their faith in their town is being backed by works.

With that kind of a spirit behind it, the city of Lewisport is bound to grow and not only be the chief of the Ohio Valley, but one of the chief cities of the Ohio Valley.

Lewisport owes to E. S. Watts a rising vote of thanks.

Lewisport should also go before a looking glass and lift its hat to itself.

It certainly is the biggest little place in these diggings.

THE FAIR.

Fine Exhibits of Agricultural Products.

Women Win Laurels For Their Fancy Work

The horticultural, agricultural, fancy work exhibits and the tobacco and poultry show were held in the city hall. The spacious room was unadorned, and each exhibit occupied a special department.

One of the stands was a magnificent collection of Indian relics and souvenirs of the stone age. There were stone arrow heads, flint knives, hatchets, knives, mortars, pestles and all the implements and tools that savage and prehistoric man used in days of old.

Next to this exhibit was the watermelon display. It is known how big and how juicy the watermelons are that grow in Hancock county, the colored population would look upon it as a land overflowing with milk and honey and had an excuse to go hungry. The fact was that one went hungry.

Royal makes the food pure, wholesome and delicious.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

ENTERPRISING FIRM.

The firm of J. C. Bell, was especially public spirited. Their enterprise and liberality was every where apparent. At the store, on the street and at the city hall one met their exhibits and was impressed by their energy and ability.

Both members of the band and closed their store at a great personal sacrifice to help furnish music.

They were represented in the parade by a huge float which was a perfect representation of their five two-story brick mercantile house. An inscription on the float that struck everybody forcibly was, "Every Day is a Grand Bargain Day at J. C. Bell's." At the city hall the firm had a splendid exhibit. The one that attracted the most attention was their patent and gate for wagons. This contrivance was explained by a convenient little model and every farmer who saw it was enthralled.

POULTRY SHOW.

Geo. Yeager Exhibits His "Cherokee" Fowl.

The poultry show was very creditable. The principal exhibitor was Mr. George Yeager.

By the way, he had an exhibit that was of unusual interest to poultry fanciers.

He had three coons of his famous "Cherokee" strain of fowl.

They are an absolutely new breed and were originated by him.

Mr. Yeager has experimented with the strain for 15 years, and has at last produced a fowl that is perfectly true to color and markings.

They are uniform in hue and the feathers is of a beautiful mouse-color with a velvet lustre that makes it one of the handsomest of domestic birds. The chickens are distinctly American and their splendid build, with their gamy appearance and hardy constitution make them the best all-purpose birds that can be raised.

They are fine rangers and beat any of the Asiatic or American breeds as broiler or egg producers.

Mr. Yeager was offered $35 for one coop of four birds, but refused to sell.

BANK EXHIBIT.

Ben Poinexter and the Bank of Lewisport were very much in evidence. Mr. Poinexter, who is a member of the board of visitors and took it upon himself to see that all enjoyed themselves.

The Bank of Lewisport had one of the most original exhibits in the parade. It was a huge safe, mounted upon runners and drawn by a yoke of mammoth oxen. It was the most solid and substantial appearing thing in the parade and was typical of the magnificent financial institution it represented.

On the safe was painted: "Bank of Lewisport, Capital Stock $15,000. Equipped with Burglar Proof Vault. Provides safety storage for stocks, bonds and valuables."

It was a very attractive feature and excited a world of favorable comments.

THE CONCERT.

After dinner the great round of pleasure again began. The citizens appeared on the streets and the band chariot was driven up to the front of Poll's store and the Lewisport Military Band, dressed in white with dark uniforms, took its place.

A concert was then given that was equal to any musical festival ever given in this section of the State.

The boys do not play old worn out pieces, but up-to-date concert music, and that they perform well goes without saying. This was one of the most enjoyable events of the day's program.

THE NIGHT PARADE.

At night there was an illuminated parade. Floats decorated in every conceivable color and festooned with a myriad of lights, a legion of beautifully trimmed bicycles whose revolving wheels formed prisms of rare beauty, and a battalion of children dressed in handsome costumes and bearing gorgeous lanterns made it seem like the triumphal march of some fairy queen.

It was a living picture of gorgeous splendor and was a fitting epitome of the chapter of Lewisport's history that was furnished by this red letter day.

The Eagle And The Vulture.

Said the vulture to the eagle:
"I'm looking straight at you."
Said the eagle to the vulture:
"Who's looking straight at whom?"
Then the eagle and the vulture
Came together in the air,
And there they both agreed
To be united as one.
Said the eagle to the vulture:
"I'm going to look through."
Said the vulture to the eagle:
"I won't do a thing to you."
Then the two birds came together,
And they had a pretty fight,
And it ended in a truce.

Why Beef Has an Upward Tendency.

The probabilities are that the price of beef will advance, not from any artificial cause, but because the live cattle are on the up grade. The demand is good and the supplies of desirable animals are not excessive. There is more beef consumed by the armies in the field, and the prescribed rations call for more than if there was no war and the men composing the armies were at home. The waste is more and the tenders to increase the consumption of the war.

There are plenty of cattle in the West, although fewer than for several years, but there are many of them that are not better now, nor will they be for some time.

This statement is verified by the fact that the receipts of cattle are smaller than at the same time last year. Last month the receipts of cattle at Kansas City, Chicago, Omaha and St. Louis were 34,498 head in June, 1897, while the hog deficiency was 10,000 head.

My experience has taught me what is best to do and this is my receipt: Keep out of the sun; change clothes as often as they get wet; eat no fruits or grease; take a stiff drink of whisky three times a day, or as often as the opportunity affords; keep off the damp ground; drink as little water as possible; sleep under a blanket at night. By adhering to these rules I can keep the fresh earth off my carcass for awhile.

I understand that an investigation of the medical corps is to be held. I hope this is so and that it will bring about a change for the better.

WM. FARRER.

See our convey, with its thirty or forty thousand pounds riding the waves of the sea. It is run on the great coast of carrying on war, and the fearful destructive power of the fighting machines in our navy. I also realized that war was murder in a certain degree, and it made me feel a little blue, but then I thought of what a glorious thing it was to fight for the liberation of an oppressed race and I felt that it was indeed a privilege to be used as an instrument to spread the doctrine of human liberty and I was happy.

I went through the fiery furnace of El Caney and weathered the storm of shot and shell. After the terrible three days fighting was over and the white flag, denoting the surrender of the Spaniards, was thrown to the breeze, I experienced a thrill of joy and pride that was worth all the suffering of a lifetime to feel.

When we entered Santiago we saw the most pitiful sights that ever greeted human eye. The people seemed to be veritable skeletons and their hopeless faces told the hearts of our sympathetic soldiers with unutterable pain. We were surprised in relieving the sufferings of our late enemies and the people of the beleaguered city.

There is plenty of tropical fruit here, but it does not seem to be nourishing. There is much sickness in the army. All the hardships, dangers and suffering we have gone through with unflinching patience have been for nothing.

Still I love the army and will stay with it for many years to come.

A BRAVE LAD.

Fought Dons Up the Hillside of San Juan.

Says He Longs For His Old Kentucky Home.

Walter Eaton, writing to his mother from Santiago, July 17th says: "I am in Santiago de Cuba. We had a very hard time taking the town. My captain was killed on the hill while leading the charge on the heights of San Juan. The battle was fearful. I kept close to my captain and thought every moment that I would be killed. The bullets were flying like hail."

I am now corporal of Company K, Sixteenth Infantry, United States Army. I have to instruct my squad of men how to drill and become good soldiers. I am getting $24.60 per month from the government, but won't get paid until I am back in the United States. I am in good health, but often have pain of longing for my old Kentucky home.

IT WAS HELD.

Treatment of Sick at Santiago Was Vile.

A CLOVERPORT BOY DESCRIBES IT.

Soldier Has a Dead Brother for a Bed-Fellow.

BILL FARBET ATTACKED BY "CALENTURA."

Volley Fired Over Dead Comrades Excite the Sick Soldiers.

The following story of suffering comes from William Farber, a Cloverport boy who writes to his mother from Santiago de Cuba, under date of August 6.

DEAR MOTHER:—The adjutant called to his office this morning and gave me a letter that Mr. A. R. Fisher wrote, enquiring if I were dead. I told you when I left Mobile that I had a long time to live if I had to wait until a Spaniard killed me. It was not my intention when I came here to give my old hide to the buzzards for rations and you know I tell the truth occasionally.

I have not received a letter from you for some time. Most any kind of a letter would cheer a fellow up in this grave-yard where soldiers are dying like sheep of the rot. I am just recovering from my third attack of the terrible fever called "calentura." I have had it since July 15, and as it rains every day I have suffered intensely.

Every day we heard the volleys fired over the graves of eight or ten of our dead comrades. The custom had to be stopped finally, as it excited and depressed our sick soldiers.

Some heartrending incidents transpire here. Two brothers in Co. I, this regiment, were bunking together under a shelter tent not fifteen paces from where I lay. Both were sick. One of them died and the remaining brother knew nothing of it for three or four hours. A soldier who went to wake them discovered the fact. This happened this afternoon; the surviving brother is not expected to live until morning.

The treatment that a sick soldier gets here is horrible. We are often short of necessities and we get none of the dainties that the papers say are shipped to us from the States. The doctrine of the survival of the fittest is in cruel force here.

My experience has taught me what is best to do and this is my receipt: Keep out of the sun; change clothes as often as they get wet; eat no fruits or grease; take a stiff drink of whisky three times a day, or as often as the opportunity affords; keep off the damp ground; drink as little water as possible; sleep under a blanket at night. By adhering to these rules I can keep the fresh earth off my carcass for awhile.

I understand that an investigation of the medical corps is to be held. I hope this is so and that it will bring about a change for the better.

WM. FARBET.

HELL ON EARTH

Charlie Carter Describes El Caney's Battle.

Was One of the Heroes of the Three Day's Fight.

Another brave lad from Breckenridge who was at Santiago, is Charlie Carter. Writing to his father he says:

"As you know by this time, the province of Santiago, as well as 27,000 Spanish troops have surrendered to the United States."

We had a hard time forcing the capitulation, but finally accomplished it. I am a member of Co. C, Seventh Regiment, United States Army. We had our first fight at El Caney and in the three days battle of July 1st, 2nd and 3rd. We were in the battle of Siboney.

El Caney was a veritable hell on earth. We were exposed to an awful fire and the zone of death took the whole hill up which we charged. We never faltered and to prove the fact that fortune favors the brave only one man was killed and one wounded on our company during the terrible charge in which each man counted death.

It was miraculous that our regiment, the Seventh, only lost seven killed and nineteen wounded.

I saw Bill Mattingly and Bud King the other day. They are looking well. War prices prevail here. I had to pay 30 cents for this sheet of paper to write on and I am not a Vanderbilt. I must expect my letters to be like angel's visits, "few and far between" unless the price comes down.

LIKE SARDINES.

Soldiers Were Packed on Board The Boat.

Joe Mattingly Relates His Experiences at Santiago.

Joe Mattingly, of Co. G, Sixteenth United States Infantry, passed through the baptism of blood and fire at El Caney. He is a Cloverport boy and writing home to his father says:

This is the first opportunity I have had to write you since June. Our trip to Santiago was a horrible one. We were loaded on the transport ship Hudson and sailed for Santiago. The first night a violent storm caused illness and suffering and to add to our misery we anchored two days at Key West where we were bottled by a tropical sun. It was a beautiful sight to see our convey, with its thirty or forty thousand pounds riding the waves of the sea. It is run on the great coast of carrying on war, and the fearful destructive power of the fighting machines in our navy. I also realized that war was murder in a certain degree, and it made me feel a little blue, but then I thought of what a glorious thing it was to fight for the liberation of an oppressed race and I felt that it was indeed a privilege to be used as an instrument to spread the doctrine of human liberty and I was happy.

THRIVING IRVINGTON.

Is to Have a Magnificent New College.

Quite a Building Boom There This Year.

One of the most thriving and enterprising towns in the entire "Pennyrite" is the little city of Irvington.

It has enjoyed a phenomenal growth this season and the building trades have prospered wonderfully.

Her latest enterprise is a new college. The promoters are Messrs. Jolly Piggett and Wimp, and they are selected Prof. Drabb, a splendid educator, as the head of the institution.

They have begun the construction of the college building. It will be 24x35 in dimensions and is to cost $1,500.

Dr. Moorman will build a handsome cottage in Woodland addition, Irvington, in the near future. The structure will be quite an ornament to that locality.

The new brick building for Shilman & Company and the new bank institution is rapidly nearing completion. It will be a handsome modern edifice and will materially enhance the appearance of Irvington.

One Minute Cough Cure surprises people by its quick cure and children may take it in large quantities without the least danger. It has won for itself the best reputation of any preparation used to day for colds, croup, tickling in the throat or obstinate coughs—Short & Haynes.

A Success.

Rev. McFarland, of Louisville, has been conducting a protracted meeting at Stephensport, the past week. He reports that he met with splendid success.

AN INSPIRATION.

Was the Choral Singing of the Children's Choir.

The members of St. Rose's Catholic church were agreeably surprised Sunday by the delightful singing of the children's choir.

They rendered the high mass in a most beautiful manner and the harmonious blending of the fresh, sweet childish voices was a perfect symposium of melody.

The choir is the result of the splendid drill and training of Miss Annie May. It performs all the different passages of the mass perfectly.

The children sing with perfect accord and all who heard them congratulate the congregation and compliment Miss May for her splendid ability and talent.

You Can Depend On It

that Fole's Colic Cure has instant relief for colic, summer complaint, cholera morbus, diarrhoea, bloody flux, cholera infantum, cholera infantum, bilious colic, painter's colic and all bowel complaints—A. R. Fisher, Cloverport; R. A. Shelman, Stephensport; Gordon & Haynes, Palestine; E. A. Wist, Hardinsburg.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Reported That Miss Carrie Owen is Badly Hurt.

It is rumored that Miss Carrie Owen, one of Glendale's most popular young ladies, has suffered severely from a runaway accident. According to report, she was thrown from her buggy and had a leg and arm broken.

Dr. Witt's Witch Hazel Ointment has the largest sale of any Ointment in the world. This fact and its merit has led dishonest people to attempt to counterfeit it. Look out for the man who attempts to deceive you when you call for Dr. Witt's Witch Hazel Ointment the great pain cure—Short & Haynes.

WHEAT IN MEADE.

Her Farmers Raise Quarter of a Million Bushels.

Her Hills Prove to be Unusually Productive.

A conservative estimate of the amount of wheat raised in Meade county this year is 250,000 bushels. This was threshed by ten operators of threshing outfits.

They report the grain to be of a superior quality, being well filled and weighing out far heavier than the average. The average yield for the county is 16 bushels to the acre. Among the largest producers in the county were:

G. W. Weather raised 1,073 bushels on 10 acres. His crop averaged 107 bushels to the acre. He will now 100 acres in wheat this year.

Charles Hardaway 1000 bushels. His crop averaged 21 bushels to the acre. R. S. Dowell & Son 1000 bushels. Production to the acre 25 bushels.

Henry R. Smith 1,833 bushels; weighed out 1,973.

Lynn Graycroft 1,800 bushels. O. D. Richardson, 1,403 bushels, weighed out 1,653; oats 230; rye 215.

Preparations are being made to plant the largest wheat crop in the history of Meade. The acreage will be increased fully 20 per cent. A large amount of fertilizer and implements are being sold by dealers.

Booklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction or money refunded. Price 35 cents per box. For sale by Short & Haynes.

A NEW NAME.

Jake Rowe Calls Urey Woodson a Yarnster.

In the Circuit Court at Owensboro Saturday morning, replying to an article charging him with wrongful conduct in compromising a prosecution, Commonwealth's Attorney, J. E. Rowe, denounced the editor of the Messenger as a malicious villain, who had persistently misrepresented and libeled him. He said the charges made against him were false and asked for a full investigation. Rowe stated that his only offense was to extend official courtesy to a poor young man, whose mother is at the point of death.

Only One Sick.

There are a number of Breckenridge county boys enlisted in the regiments that are now brigaded at Camp Miles at Lexington. A communication to the News from a soldier stationed there says that Ernest H. Pate, of Co. H., Third Kentucky, is very sick but that all the rest of the Breckenridge county boys are in good health.

Good Prices.

Sam Dix, of the Stephensport neighborhood, is one of the most intelligent farmers in this county. He was at Louisville Friday and sold 24 h alf cattle, October delivery at a pound. The animals are feeders and will average from 900 to 1,000 pounds each. This is a top price.

For a Few Days.

Wood Marble, the expert photographer, will remain at Irvington a few days longer. All persons wanting photographs should avail themselves of the opportunity of getting them taken now as he will go inside of a week. He does excellent work.

A PLEASANT LOOK.

Is all the Clothes Porto Rico Kids Wear.

Our Own Victor Bowmer Writes His Impressions.

Porto Rico, Aug. 17, 1898.—After nearly three months of weary waiting we have at last landed on the coast of Porto Rico, in the harbor of Ponce. The city is three miles inland but there is a good size town at the landing. Of the beauty and natural wealth of the island I will say nothing, for those who have read of this country know as much in regard to that as I and I could say would only be a repetition of what they have already heard.

The little town in the harbor appears as if the had been asleep for a hundred years and had just awakened and is now rubbing her eyes.

The houses are all quaint little one story affairs, situated far apart and surrounded with coconut palms, nearly all of which are bearing fruit.

We were delighted with the view of the island as we saw it from the transport vessel and even more so after our closer inspection. No doubt many of the boys will make their home here after they are mustered out of service.

We believe that fortunes will be quickly made when enterprising Americans and capital come in, as they surely will as soon as it becomes the property of the United States government.

The natives are shrewd but simple in manner and dress. Many of the women are very pretty and dress in a mode best suited to the hot climate. A single garment that struts them between the knees and ankle with sandals laced very becomingly about their ankles is the prevailing style. The children under four years of age wear a pleasant look—nothing more. They girls are ever ready to flirt with us but not knowing their language or they own we think we are greatly handicapped in love making. They all smoke, and I don't blame them for they make the finest cigars I ever tasted. The people of Ponce proper are a better class and make much more of a display of wealth and comfort. While walking through the resident portion of the town we heard a little beginner in music practicing and running the same scales we so often hear at home, and that, I believe, is among the first lessons of every beginner in music. It was the most homelike sound we had heard since we landed.

Street vendors are most persistent in trying to sell their fruits. Coconuts, mangoes, bananas and many other tropical fruits grow in abundance and a few cents will buy all one wants. You can go into a restaurant, order a dinner, top it off with a bottle of fine old wine and enjoy an after dinner cigar, the first you ever smoked in your life all for twenty-five cents in United States single gold standard, money or for fifty cents in their money.

For twelve cents you can order a carriage and spend a hour in driving. No matter if your carriage is more like a cart and the horse happens to be a bull. The fact that you are getting the best they have makes up for this slight difference.

This little harbor town, which is nothing more than Ponce landing, is by no means a wide-awake and far more advanced as I have learned from the people.

Our small pay as privates in the ranks will go as far here as four times the amount would at home and we think the prospects are very good for us spending rather an enjoyable winter, should we remain so long.

We will not pitch camp here as we at first thought, but will move up the coast to Mayaguez where we will land and march inland. We have not yet seen a Spanish soldier nor heard a hostile gun. But those who are best acquainted with us will know that not seeing Spaniards does not detract a great deal to our enjoyment of the trip. W. V. Bowser.

BLOODHOUNDS

Put on the Trail of a Rubber Who Stole $300.

A. W. Templeman, a well-to-do farmer living eight miles west of Leitchfield, was robbed of $300 Friday night, which he drew from a bank to pay out soon and put in a trunk at his home. The trunk was broken into. Bloodhounds were sent from Leitchfield to trace the culprit, but he escaped.

You invite disappointment when you experiment. Dr. Witt's Little Early Riser are pleasant, easy, thorough little pills. They cure constipation and sick headache—just as sure as you take them—Short & Haynes.

Employing Virginia.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Zirkel, of Cloverport, Ky., came down from New Haven, W. Va., and are the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Shiley. Mr. Zirkel is an engineer on the Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis railroad and one of their most trusted employees and efficient passenger engineers. He reports business good with his road and the company one of the best in the country to work for.—Gallipolis O., Tribune.

New Dentist.

The hustling city of Hardinsburg will have an addition to her professional circles in the person of Dr. W. A. Walker, a fine young dentist from Louisville. He is a graduate of the Louisville Dental College and is thoroughly versed in the art of modern dental surgery.
